JOHN HANCOCK U.S. GYMNASTICS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Vanessa Allee and Kristy Powell shared the women's all-around title, the first tie in the all-around at the National Championships since 1972, when Joan Moore Goss and Cathy Rigby McCloy were co-champions. Marlene Stephens won the junior women's all-around title. On the men's side Blaine Wilson won his second consecutive all-around title, surpassing John Roethlisberger by 1.7 points. Sean Townsend won the junior men's all-around title in the 16-18 division and Raj Bhavsar won the 14-15 division.

1997 USA GYMNASTICS NATIONAL CONGRESS

The 1997 USA Gymnastics National Congress was held in Denver, Colo., August 13-16, in conjunction with the John Hancock U.S. Gymnastics Championships. Ironically, the first Coaches Congress was held in Denver in 1968. The event has certainly grown since then with nearly 1,300 gymnastics professionals in attendance this year.

JOHN HANCOCK TOUR OF WORLD GYMNASTICS CHAMPIONS

The Magnificent Seven is together again for the John Hancock Tour of World Gymnastics Champions. The all new choreographed tour will travel to 35 cities across the country from September 25 to November 30. In addition to the women's team, Mihai Bageu, John Miculescu, John Roethlisberger, Kip Simons, Chantey Umphrey, and Elaine Wilson, all members of the 1996 Olympic Team, will perform on the tour. Also making special appearances are World Champions Karl Thomas and Kon Zismstal, Olympians Jessica Davis, and 1996 Olympic All-Around Champion Lilia Podkopaeva.

DON'T PUT YOUR EGO ON THE LINE EVERY TIME

By Alan Goldberg, Ed.D.

Soily is on her last and best vault, she needs is on 8.50 for her team to win the title. She salutes the judges, runs down the runway, hits the board, explodes off the vault and lands right on her bottom. She has one more chance, one more vault. However, her second vault looks identical to the first vault.

Out of intense feelings of shame she tells herself that she might as well quit gymnastics, that she's nothing but a loser anyway. Later that night she's surprised to find herself beginning to question her decision to go to college the next year. Maybe she just doesn't have the right stuff.

Probably one of the toughest skills for any athlete to develop is the ability to separate his/her worth as a person from the quality or outcome of his/her performance. Too many athletes, like the one described above, make the serious mistake of believing that when they perform poorly, they have something to be ashamed of and that they are less deserving of love and respect than when they win. This way of thinking is terribly destructive, killing the joy inherent in sports and interfering with an athlete's quest for excellence.

When gymnasts compete and their ego is on the line, they set themselves up to fail big. Winning becomes too important and losing becomes a crushing humiliation, something to be avoided at all costs. In this light we can certainly understand the behavior of young athletes who are drawn to unsportsmanlike actions.

A preoccupation with winning and losing puts excessive pressure on the athlete, tightening them up physically and mentally. With so much at stake, the athlete's movements get tentative, self-conscious, and awkward. Concentration becomes impossible as the mind races, entertaining distorted fears and the what ifs. "What if I lose?" "What if I blow my dismount?" "What if I drop my hoop?" The athlete is now unable to take the risks as necessary for optimal performance.

Furthermore, athletes don't have fun when they believe their self-worth is on the line. And without the fun, an athlete will not perform up to his/her capabilities.

Winning is definitely important and losing is no fun. There has never been a champion who likes to lose.

In fact, elite athletes like losing, living with a passion. But losing, making mistakes, and other set backs are an inherent part of sports, and life for that matter. When you compete, then by definition, there will be winners and losers, and usually many more of the latter.

Furthermore, champions know that poor performances provide them with an important source of feedback for learning and improvement. When a champion loses, he or she says: "what can I learn from this?" When a loser loses, he/she views the results as concrete evidence of personal failure and inadequacies.

When competing, athletes should stay in the present, performing each move, one at a time. Peak athletic experiences only happen with this present, ego-less focus. Choking experiences in athletics always happen with a past or future focus when you, as a person, think you have a lot to lose. Enjoy the moment by moment struggle in sport competition because this is what it's all about.

Gymnasts don't tumble to get from one side of the floor to the other. It's the participation in and process of competitive sports that is fun, rewarding and teaches us some valuable lessons, not the trophy case filled with pieces of dust-covered metal and plastic.

1997 U.S. CHALLENGE AND WORLD UNIVERSITY GAMES TRIALS

Marcel L. Schile

Both the U.S. Challenge and the World University Games Trials were held June 29/30 in Cincinnati, Ohio. Cincinnati Gymnastics Academy, home of 1996 Olympic coach Mary Lou Retton, has new assistant Ken Zmeskal, and 1996 Olympians Joyce Fuchs and Annette Sinden, hosted the event.

The World University Games Trials brought the most excitement to the venue as world renowned Shannon Miller walked into CGA with her coach Steve Marino. Shannon won the competition and will represent the U.S. at the University of Oklahoma in July. Kelly Robinson, Shannon's rival from Kentucky, hosts of the University of Georgia, will also travel to Italy. Rebeca Pineda and the U.S. team will be heading to Montreal and South Korea, where spots were determined at the 1997 NCAA Championships, held earlier this year.

National elite testing took place Saturday morning for the children and juniors. There are compulsory routines made up 40 percent of their final U.S. Challenge of around seven. The remaining 60 percent consisted of Sunday's optional. Coming out on top were Kristal Taylor of Parkettes in the children's division and Lindsey Roush of H.O.C.S. in the junior division. The top six girls compete in both categories qualified for the 1997 National Olympics Festival held at the U.S. Classic in Seattle, Wash., July 31/32.

The Senior division also competed in the U.S. Challenge, although their all-around scores were a 100 percent reflection of the option of competition, held Sunday afternoon. The top four women, led by Nikki Jaynes of the Arizona Sunnys, also will compete in the 1997 National Games.

SHANNON MILLER

SHANNON MILLER Q&A

by Marcel L. Schile

What are you doing now?

I'm all the time now, but I start again in September. I'm going to Oklahoma University next year and trying out some racing and commenting. I do personal appearances and have done some commercials.

Which ones?

Back of Oklahoma, French's Dairy Store, and the Wadjet (in book support system).

How did you've accomplished your Olympic goals, what are your goals now?

Right now my goals are to try a lot of new things. I want to try commenting and acting and I will want to compete. I want to compete professionally also but right now everything's just for fun.

What made you decide to compete in World University Games Trials instead of World Championships?

It wasn't that I decided not to compete in the World Championships. I love competing. This was coming up and I decided "Why not?" My goals right now are to go to competitions that are fun and new. I've been to Worlds four times already. I've never been to the World University Games. Also, the Cosmos Cup was when international competitors started for the Olympics and the Cosmos Cup in 1996, but I didn't make it.

What lies ahead in your future?

Right now, the furthest I can see is this competition. I know that I'm going back on the tour, of course, and definitely competing in more professional competitions, but beyond that, I haven't really decided.

Anything else?

I am really excited to be part of a world team again. It should be a lot of fun.

CHOREOGRAPHY TRAINING MAKES SKILLS HAPPEN!

European coaches really depend on the choreographer to help develop the flexibility, body-alignment and strength needed for bars and vault as well as floor and beam. And no, true gymnastic choreography is not the same as 'dance instruction'. . . not even close.

"Natasha is the most professional, enthusiastic choreographer we've ever had the pleasure to work with. Judges and coaches throughout Russia compliment us on the quality of Natasha's studies. Her dance classes combine flexibility, physical conditioning and gymnastics in addition to dance basics. Her clients immediately improved our gymnasts' body lines, posture and overall body awareness. We strongly suggest that any gymnast or coach who is serious about quality gymnastics contact Natasha and take advantage of her knowledge and enthusiasm for our sport!"
Ron and Cindy Bortolotto — SUNSET CITY GYM, TX

"Nobody works harder than Natasha. She gives 100% to each and every gymnast, and has helped our girls and boys learn in a number of ways. Natasha really loves her work, and so do we!"
Jenny Cox — QUEEN CITY GYM, OH

"Natasha's enthusiasm and drive to achieve perfection with each of our gymnasts is sure to make her the most sought-after choreographer in the United States! She's also the funniest Russian coach I know!"

GIBSON

Always will be improvements. Books should always get better in some way. If coaching time is not found in your program, choose to teach the basics and suppress the worst ups and conditioning exercises; very slowly instead of choosing to see all of the mistakes.

SHORT ON TIME

Reduce the number of mistakes and/or eliminate repetitions to "make time" for the basics. For example:

- The gymnast does flip flop step-out, layout step-out, or the beam.
- Instead of rolling bar to make 10 without a miss, work gradually up to 3, 4, then 5 repetitions.
- Use the time gained for basics on the split circle, flip flyplacement, flip fly close, flash pit, swinging of weight on the forward bar, flip "squareness," bars, timing and total completion of the new ring, posture, etc.

BELIEVE

Believe. Because if it is true. If the foundation for skills is mastered, as, at least adequate, the skills are learned accordingly. The "slow way" is usually the "best and most efficient way." Work hard to teach this belief to your athletes.

COURAGE

Give the courage to commit to basics and proper posture.

SAD FACTS

Good athletes, the best athletes, are the most learned by deciding that ignores the importance of good, varied, and always-improving basics. The contemporary methods: those a athlete adopt and use to succeed—improper posture, timing, muscle groups, flexibility (back off and back etc.)—become habits and physical habits ones that are usually impossible to change, even with hours of work. And the improper development certainly produces an unhappy and unfulfilled gymnast, rather than a happy and confident one.

STRESS

For many reasons, working on the basics should continue throughout the competitive career. Certainly any good reason is the alleviation of stress. Basics settle down and lead gymnasts into good overall training workouts.

CONCLUSION

The basis of gymnastics—first identification, then technique, and explanation—should fill many volumes, not a single article. However, I hope these few paragraphs will serve as some inspiration for choosing to coach the basics. After all, a roll is as challenging to teach as a double-making double back. A good coach is a coach who does it all, and who is thoughtful when the basics are taught. This is the true measure of a successful coach.

USA GYMNASTICS MEN'S JUNIOR OLYMPIC PROGRAM

ACADEMIC ALL-AMERICAN RECOGNITION AWARD

Each year the USA Gymnastics Men's Program Department recognizes outstanding academic performance by male gymnasts in grades 9-12. To the right is a list of the First Team (grade point average of 3.85 and above), the Second Team (grade point average of 3.7-3.84), and the Honorable Mention Team (grade point average of 3.5-3.69). Congratulations to all of these smart, dedicated, hard-working gymnasts!

Are you a male gymnast in grades 9-12 with a high grade point average? Would you like to be considered for a 1997 Men's Junior Olympic Academic All-American Recognition Award? Have your coach fill out the application form, which is located on page 84 of the Men's Program Rules and Policies Book, and submit the application by April 15, 1998. GOOD LUCK!

MOCEANU STEPPING INTO FASHION

Did you know 1996 Olympic Gold Medalist Domingos Moceanu has signed a one-year partnership with S-7-9 Shops, a leading junior apparel retailer? The retailer will feature Moceanu in advertising, in store signage, promotional materials, and in store appearances.

"Clothes and shopping are two of my favorite things," says Moceanu. "I realize sense that I would represent a store like S-7-9 because I've shopped there for a long time. The clothes are so cool, and they fit me!"

ARIZONA SUNRAYS' MURAL CAPTURES GYMNASTICS SPIRIT

The Arizona Sunrays in Phoenix, Ariz., had a giant 20-by-140 foot mural, painted on the back wall of their gym by local artist Randy Hebbles. The mural features eight gymnasts performing routines stretching across the wall with a red, white and blue American flag in the background. "The gymnasts painted in the mural could be anybody," said Don Wiersma, co-owner of Arizona Sunrays with his wife, Julie. "We felt that we wanted to bring some artistic feeling into the building. This is men's and women's artistic gymnastics. Bringing another form of art into the gym makes sense."

NEW BABY BOYS!

Tim Daggett and his wife, Dr. Deanne Daggett, had a baby boy on July 16. This 6 pound 10 ounce and 20 inch long future gymnast is named Peter James, after 1984 Olympic Gold Medalists Peter Vidmar and James Morting. "We wanted our baby to have a name that had some relevance," said the proud father. "I hope he has the same outstanding character as Peter and Jim. That will be greater than any perfect 10.00!"

Kurt and Becky Thomas had a baby boy, Hunter Taylor, at 3:26 a.m. on July 30. He was born one month early, but is very healthy! He weighed 5 pounds and 10 ounces. Congratulations to the Thomas family!

USA GYMNASTICS HELPS AFRICAN GYMNASTICS UNION

USA Gymnastics is working with the African Gymnastics Union in order to help in the development of gymnastics on the African continent. USA Gymnastics provided six coaches for the African Gymnastics Union for several months during the summer of 1997. While in Africa the U.S. coaches were involved with coaching all levels of gymnastics, including National Team members in final preparation for the upcoming World Championships in Louisville, Switzerland. The coaches were also involved with coaching lower levels, in order to help in their developmental programs. The following individuals coached abroad:

MOROCCO

Summer Dorling - Lincoln, Nebraska
Alan Thomas - Hilliard, Ohio

NAMIBIA

Tom Vorloper - Albany, California
Dana Fleming - Centerville, Ohio

SENEGAL

Sebi Hertz - Levittown, New York
Jana DeCano - Seattle, Washington

Thanks to all these coaches who made a tremendous impact on the African gymnastics programs!

U.S. GYMNASTICS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Atler and Powell
SHARE TITLE

VAULT

After went vault using a front hand-spring layout front and a double twisting Yurchenko. Maloney took second also using a double twisting Yurchenko and a one-e-half twisting Yurchenko both in a layout position. Andrie and Shandway tied for third. Andrie did a full twisting Yurchenko onto the bars with a pike take off, and a full twisting Yurchenko onto the bars with a layout take off. Shandway used a Yurchenko one-and-a-half twist in layout position and a Yurchenko full, also in a layout position.

BARS

The Golden girls Powell and Andrie took first and second on bars. Powell executes a Shepetukhina, overbar to backhand, upper backhand, then to immediate Grieg, top set handstand 1/2 pike, full set dismount. Andrie does a front over low bar off of the springboard, upper back with full twist, full set to immediate Healy, followed by another Healy. 1/2 pike, then, immediate backhand, grip, giant, double layout.

While the Golden girls, After and Dauracher, tied for third. After does a giant full to reverse back to Grasp, flip, a pike take and a full twisting Andrie layout dismount. Dauracher does a Shepetukhina to a pike take to a two-e-half, Grieg, and dismounts with a double twisting double back in back position.

BEAM

Back took first as beam using a round layout step out mount, flip flop back full, handstand step down layout stepout, wall jump to full twisting caving down, flip flop flip flop double back dismount. Taranuk took second using a front seat mount to jump. Flip flop to Dwell (Giles in front handstand up), front seat, One-handed, and a one-and-a-half front dismount. Dyrus took third using a flip flop to full twisting back, switch leap to immediate cheap jump, wall jump to flip flop quarter in pike, roundoff double back dismount.

FLOOR

Dancing and tumbling to "Cobert," Wang took first on floor using a front handspring double front take, a two-and-a-half twist to pike front, and a triple full for her dismount. Maloney took second using a whip through to a one-and-a-half twist, pike front, a triple full, a layout full, and a double back to a pike position. Maloney, using the music "Grease," took third using a double layout, a whip to double back to a pike position, a back one-e-half twist to a layout position, whip back to immediate one-and-a-half front layout, and dismounted with a triple full

by Lane Pezack

At the top of the beam occurred at the 1997 John Hancock U.S. Gymnastics Championships in Denver, Colorado's Archuleta Arena, August 13-16. Not only did the weather turn from sunshine to a massive hail storm, but the competitors just changed. Only one 1996 Olympian competed, Dominique Picotini, but the new names and faces turned out to be the drier than ones in the competition.

Gilbert Vonesse After, from Carlsbad, Calif., along with Cincinnati's Kristy Powell, shared the all-around title. After two days of optional competition.

"I wanted to come in, do my new tricks, and have fun," said After. Although After qualified to the World Championships team, the International Gymnastics Federation's rules state that she must be 16 in the year of the event to be eligible to compete. Since After just turned 15 in February, she is not eligible to compete at the World Championships. She said, "I was disappointed at first, but I realize I can't do anything about it. I think the rule is good in some ways and bad in other ways. It just happens to be bad for me."

Sixteen-year-old Powell, who had leg surgery in May to relieve pressure on her calf muscles, said, "I've waited for this my whole life and I'm so happy." Coach Mary Lee Tracy added, "Kristy went eight for eight routines. She hit the best routines of her life and she's very deserving."

After, who was the 1996 Junior National Champion, led the entire competition. Going into her last event, bars, she had a .65 lead over Powell. Unfortunately, After fell on her Grasp grip and scored only on 8.650, which allowed Powell, who finished on bars with a 9.30, to tie for the all-around title.

After said, "I was nervous on bars because I looked at the scoreboard and saw how close the scores were. My coaches (Steve and Beth Ryback) always tell me not to look at the scoreboard and I shouldn't have looked this time."

Beyers's Gymnastics Mahini Shandway, the second oldest competitor at the competition at age 18, finished third all-around.

Shandway said, "I'm going to UCLA with a gymnastics scholarship and I wasn't sure I wanted to compete here. Rita (Brown) convinced me about a month ago to compete at the National Championships and I've trained very hard. I moved to Florida and lived with Rita. I couldn't have done it without her. I'm really glad I came to this meet and I'm looking forward to competing at the World Championships."

Porter's Kristin Maloney, 16, finished fourth in the all-around, securing a spot on the World Championships team. Maloney was rock solid on six of the eight events, with bars being her only trouble spot.

Maloney said, "Bars has been going very well in practice but when I got to a competition I lose confidence in myself. My coaches keep telling me that I'm good on bars and I'm trying to work on it."

Cypress' Lindsay Wing and Glider's James Dantzscher finished fifth and sixth all-around, but like After, aren't eligible to compete at the World Championships due to their age.

Wing, 15, and just 22 days too young to compete, said, "I was just excited to be here competing as a senior. It was scary at first competing with all the seniors, but I had a great time."

Because After, Wing, and Dantzscher were not age-eligible for the World Team, Jennie Thompson, Kendall Beck and Dominique Moceanu, who finished seventh through ninth, moved onto the World Championships team.

"I'm very glad to be on the World Championships team," said Thompson. "I was too young like Venusus, Lindsay and Jamie in 1993 and couldn't compete so I'm glad I got to go this year."

Beck said, "I'm just happy to be here. I had a back injury and tore my ACL in November, so this is very unexpected for me."

Moceanu said, "I started training about two months before Championships. I just wanted to come in here and do the best I could. Even with my mistake on the bars I pulled through in the end. This team looks pretty good, we'll go out and give it all we got."

She added, "I considered not coming back in the sport because I miss my family and friends since I have to train so much. But I look at all I've accomplished in the sport and I hope to accomplish more like Shannon [Willie] did."

SGATS Jacquetta Antolin finished 10th in the all-around and will travel to Switzerland for the World Championships in the event one of the U.S. team members is injured and can't compete.

Rounding out the U.S. National Team is: Cypress' Kristie Dixon, Atlantic's Shannon Bowles, Gym Mac's Amy Young, Cincinnati's Mary Beth Arnold, Technique's Aloise Ingram, Cypress' Kelly Parkman, Hill's Riegan Hancock, Porter's Betsy McDowell, Kent's Joann Rice, and North Star's Alyssa Seckman.

Olympian Brian Wilson, formerly of Ohio State University, successfully defended his all-around title at the John Hancock U.S. Gymnastics Championships in Denver, Colorado's McNichols Arena, August 13-16.

Wilson, who was competing in his 37th competition since the Olympic Games, said, "Obviously the competition went well for me. I didn't come into this event to win, I just wanted to hit 12 for 12 routines. It feels good to be the national champion, but a bigger goal is the World Championships. Our team looks good, think we will do well there."

Wilson became only the two and male gymnast in history to claim all-around titles in both the USA Gymnastics National Championships and the NCAA National Championships in 12 consecutive years. Roethlisberger pulled off the double-double in 1992 and 1993.

Wilson lead after the preliminary round of optional competition and expanded on his lead throughout the finals. He surpassed his nearest competitor John Roethlisberger by 1.7 points.

Two-time Olympian Roethlisberger, from the University of Minnesota, made a great come-back to finish second in the all-around. After the second event during preliminaries, Roethlisberger was 26th in the standings. He had three mops, a misstep in his routine to score only a 7.10. "It was the worst routine I've ever done in a national championships," said Roethlisberger. "It was a character builder and a great challenge to climb back up."

"Coming into a competition I usually don't think about place," said Roethlisberger. "But, on my second event on Wednesday, I was worried about being in the top six. To wind up second, that's a bonus."

Jason Gotsen, 17, and the youngest male gymnast to make a U.S. World Championships team, finished third in the all-around. Gotsen, who trains at the U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo., was in second place by more than a point after the preliminary round of competition and maintained that position throughout finals. Unfortunately, on his last event, Gotsen could only muster on a 3.5 on pommel horse which allowed Rothberger to pass him in the rankings.

"It's a real honor to make the World team," said Gotsen. "I was definitely my goal."

Regarding being the youngest gymnast on the team, Gotsen said with a smile, "No, they give me a hard time, but I begin with these guys a lot at the Olympic Training Center and it's really no different."

A 1996 Olympian John Macraedy, also from the Olympic Training Center, finished an impressive eighth in the all-around. This was against finish considering his bad a shoulder injury since November 1996 and it was unclear if he would even be able to compete. Macraedy said, "I have had an onerous injury to my shoulder. A couple of weeks ago, I still didn't know if I would compete or not. I did easy sets to get through this event. I definitely relied on experience. It was a struggle. I'm thankful I had the opportunity to compete and my shoulder is getting better."

Newswriter Michael Dufka, from Penn State, finished fifth all-around and was asked what it was like knowing he was on the bubble. Dufka, 19, said, "I was a little scared. I was shaking on my last event, pommel horse, because I knew if I messed I wouldn't make the World Championships team."

Joy Thomson, from the U.S. Olympic Training Center, grabbed the last spot on the World Championships team. Thomson, 22, was pleased he made the team and looks forward to competing in his first World Championships.

UCIA's Jim Goody was tied for fourth all-around with Rothberger after preliminaries, but had difficulties on pommel horse and rings and dropped to seventh in the all-around. Goody will travel to Switzerland on the alternate in the event that one of the World Championships team members becomes injured or ill.

"Coming into this meet I was just hoping to make the National Team. After prelims, I was in fourth and I was shocked. I think I was too nervous during finals but, I'm happy the way it turned out."

Head coach at the World Championships team Peter Kormann, said, "I expect the U.S. team to challenge for a medal." Assistant coach Ron Brent added, "This is a great team. There is talent from young to older. Their potential is great."

Roundout of the national team are USOTC's Garry Denk, UCIA's Choiny Unghrey, Colburn's David Kusan and Trent Wells, UCIA's Stephen McCain, USOTC's Aaron Carter, and Penn's Jamie Nardale.

Marline Stephens
Wins JUNIOR NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

By Leon Poretsky

The junior women's competition took place on August 14 and 15 at the Mollie Helle Arena in Denver, Colo. The juniors competed two rounds of optional all-around competition to determine the national team and all-around champion.

After day one of competition, Hill's Angelique Bluebelly from Columbus, MS, led the pack with a score of 36.907, followed closely by Cypress' Marline Stephens from Houston, Texas, with a 35.825, and Cincinnati's Sierra Sagarin from Sebastopol, Calif., with a 35.212.

After day two of competition, 15-year-old Stephens, coached by Debbie Kotschuck and Donna Streuss, pulled ahead of her competitors to take the all-around title with a score of 71.062. Stephens clinched the competition on her last event, vault, scoring a 9.012, the third highest score of the meet on this event.

World's Junior National Team

Coach Kotschuck said, "I was real impressed with the competition tonight. I thought the difficulty looked much better tonight than Wednesday. I think we're all headed in the right direction."

Sagarin, 15, scored a 9.500 on her last event, floor, to secure the second place position. Sagarin moved from 12th all-around at the 1997 U.S. Classic to second at the National Championships. She said, "I felt really good to finish so high. I've worked so many hours and it's finally paying off. It has been my goal to move into the international rank of competition and I'm very excited."

Cypress' Kristen Thorne (pronounced TOE moy) took third in the all-around with a 70.474. Thorne, 14, was more nervous about going to the press conference than doing her triple full dismount on floor. She said, "I'm really happy with my performance." She also commented on her younger sister Britany who finished eighth in the competition by saying, "We're very competitive but we're also best friends."

Ray, coached by Kelli Hill, dropped one spot from preliminaries to finish fourth all-around. She had an outstanding preliminary competition but scored more than a point less during finals due to some difficulties on bars. Ray, 15, is a very polished gymnast and shows a great deal of poise and maturity.

Cypress' Melinda Bannister, who had a back injury from October through December 1996, showed a strong comeback to finish fifth all-around. Bannister, 14, is especially strong on beam where she performs a standing full twist. In fact, she had a fall on this skill during event finals and will need to live on beam.

Parkettes' Cami Nagle, 14, has to be the comeback story of the event. Nagle, coached by Bill and Donna Streuss, took Center John Hahn and Robin Nettell, broke her back on a reverse heel in early March 1997. She was put in a cast and, under Dr. Larry Nasser's direction, began a conditioning and rehabilitation program.

Coach Donna Streuss said, "We didn't even expect her to compete in this event but things were going so well in practice that we decided to give it a try. We were proud of her for even competing and then she finished sixth all-around. I'm tickled pink."

Hill's Angela Erin Doolley from Grafton, Mass., took seventh in the all-around. Doolley, 15, has very innovative ideas like a punch dismount front dismount off of the beam and a front flip with a half twist over low bar for a mount.

The younger Thorne sister, Britany, finished ninth all-around, falling from fifth after the preliminary competition. Britany, 13, had problems on bars which knocked her down in the rankings.

Another talented Britany, this one from Cincinnati Gymnastics and coached by Mary Lee Tracy, took ninth all-around. Fifteen-year-old Britany Smith, whose hometown is Houston, also suffered some difficulties on bars.

Cypress' Ashley Miles, 12, took an impressive 10th all-around in her first National Championships. From the scores, one can see that vault and floor are Ashley's best events.

Sean Townsend and Raj Bhavsar Win JUNIOR NATIONAL TITLES

Men's Junior Elite National Team

By Lynn Paschke

The Junior Elite Men's competition took place, August 13, in Denver, Colo., at the McNichols Sports Arena. Two divisions of competition took place, the 14-15 division and the 16-18 division.

USA Gymnastics Men's Program Manager Dennis McIntyre said, "The quality of the competition was exceptional, especially considering it was the first year with the new Code of Points. These strong juniors are sure to contribute to the success of the men's program in the future."

In the 16-18 division, Sean Townsend, 17, from Dallas, Texas, won the Junior Men's All-Around title with a score of 50.700.

Townsend, coached by Ron Harper, Kevin Mazzetta and Brandon Price of Gymnastics had the highest individual event scores of the competition on vault where he landed his front hand-spring double front to score a 9.45 and win the event.

"I've worked that vault for a long time and I've actually thrown it in three meets but this is the first time I've landed it," said Townsend. "When asked how it felt when he landed the vault, which has a 10.00 start value, Townsend said, "Great, but I was a little surprised."

Yoshi Tomita, 17, from Tucson, Ariz., took second in the all-around with a 49.450. Tomita, who trains at Gymnastics World and is coached by his father "Toke," said, "Things went pretty bad today for me. I fell on my parallel bars afternoon and I'm disappointed because I thought I could win the meet."

Third place in the all-around went to 16-year-old Anthony Petrucelli from Astoria, N.Y. Petrucelli is currently training at the University of Iowa with coaches Jo Tim Duns and Allen Kolyvansky. Petrucelli scored a 49.250 in the all-around with vault being his highest score, 9.00.

"I'm very happy," said Petrucelli. "I've been training all summer for this meet. In the past, it seems my lucky number has been five and I'm glad I've finally broken past it."

Leading out the Junior Elite National Team were Brett McClure from Mill Creek, Wash. and Cassius Elie (coached by Wayne Kent), Scott Weiss from Pennsburg, Pa., and International Gymnasts (coach Cornelius Petrusco, Coach Greg Coniglio, and Jonathan Martin from Rowland, Ok., and trains in Bethlehem, Pa. and trains at Parkettes (coach Jim Stallone).

In the 14-15 division, Roy Blomser from Houston, Texas, won the all-around with a score of 48.650. Blomser, 14, scored an 8.350 on rings, the highest score of the event, and dismounted with a triple back salto. He also scored an 8.50 on parallel bars which was the third highest score of the event.

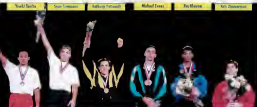

Blomser, coached by Bill Foster said, "It was great finishing first in my division. I didn't expect it but it was a nice surprise."

Michael Evans from Houston, Texas, and Gymnastics took second all-around with a score of 47.80. Evans, coached by Kevin Mazzetta, had the second highest score of the competition on vault with a 9.150.

Kris Zimmerman, 14, took third with a 47.600. Zimmerman is from Hubbard Woods, Ill., and trains at Ballistic Grove Gymnastics with coach Kelly Crumley.

Rounding out the 14-15 division on the Junior Elite National Team includes Matthew Abboud from Dayton, N.C., and Randall's Gymnastics (coach Steve Randall), Shannon Cason from Tallahassee, Fla., and Gym Force Gymnastics (coach Jim Hisey); Everett Binkler from Bendonia, N.Y. and World Cup Gymnastics (coach Carl Schaefer and Jason Habert), and Duke Van Vleet from Safety Harbor, Fla., and Apollo Gymnastics (coach David Bradley).

GRAND PRIX OF ROME

JASON GATSON EARN'S SILVER MEDAL

U.S. gymnast Jason Gatson, Kenta Ogasawara, and Kelly Perkins, along with their coaches Ross Stone and Thomas Ponsch, and judges Alex Goussard and Carolyn Brown, attended the Grand Prix of Rome from May 28-29. Athletes from 18 countries competed for all-around and individual event titles.

Gatson placed second on floor behind Dmitri Karlovnikov, third on high bar and sixth all-around. Ogasawara placed in fifth in the all-around, and tied for sixth on both. Perkins finished 12th in the all-around and ninth on vault.

1997 USA GYMNASTICS NATIONAL CONGRESS

By Lynn Pascoe

The 1997 USA Gymnastics National Congress was held in Denver, Colo., in conjunction with the John Hancock U.S. Gymnastics Championships. This year's Congress attracted nearly 1,300 gymnastics professionals.

USA Gymnastics Congress Planner Steve Whitlock said, "Despite the fact that many coaches and judges attended the National Workshops and Judging Symposia earlier in the year, the attendance at Congress was quite strong. As a measure of participation at Congress, there were nearly 2,000 people attending the banquet—1,300 Congress attendees, 600 individuals from Championships including athletes, coaches, judges, staff, and sponsors, and 100 members of the organizing committee and special guests."

One of the many highlights of this year's event was the President's Assembly, where the United State's Olympic Committee's Dick Schultz spoke about how USA Gymnastics fits into the Olympic family. Also speaking was Bruce Canach, the President of the International Gymnastics Federation and, of course, both Kathy Scantlin and Sandy Knapp, president and chairman of the board of USA Gymnastics.

This year's exhibition hall facility was much larger than usual and provided an opportunity to feature a gymnastics performance area in the center of the hall. Several local gymnastics clubs performed general gymnastics routines and a spotting clinic was held with the assistance of Cheryl Jurek and her crew from Capital Gymnastics in Austin, Texas.

Robert Bell tells girls a presentation on leading from one skills.

Men's and Women's individuals were part of the first Congress Congress which was held in Denver, Colo., in 1966. Right: The 1997 USA Gymnastics National Congress returned to Denver in August with nearly 1,300 participants—was open to truly grassroots!

Steven at Winter Olympic presents presents presents with the Olympic athletes of the Year.

Another highlight was the banquet. This event brought together both the Championships and Congress participants in a fun atmosphere with good food, lively music, dancing, video play books and more.

Overall the quality of presentations continues to improve and feedback from the participants indicated a high interest in the business, preschool and of course women's program presentations. In addition, the Rhythmic "Get a Goin'" program end, on the men's side, the two sessions on "10 Skills You Must Have" presented by the national coaching staff were very well attended and received.

General Symposium presents John Smith with the Olympic athletes of the Year.

Steve's feature of gymnastics related business display also was featured in the exhibit hall.

Michelle Deane presents presents presents with the Olympic athletes of the Year.

Gymnastics Awards Book

The Proudest Way To Display Your Achievements

Come with 5 ribbon pages and 1 medal page. Other pages available. Typically girls or boys ribbon.

- Track your success from meet to meet
- Display your awards for family and friends
- Eliminate misplaced ribbons and medals

Score Book

DESIGNER: A gymnastics score book makes it easy for you to follow your child's score during a meet. It also allows any competitor from meet to meet. Send it enough to fit in your pocket, large enough to track "unexcused" scores as well.

John Hancock TOUR OF World Gymnastics Champions

Magnificent Seven Together Again for the John Hancock Tour of World Gymnastics
Champions

The John Hancock Tour of World
Gymnastics Champions is BACK!

Sandy Knapp, USA Gymnastics
Chairman of the Board, announced that all seven members of the 1996 Olympic Gold Medal winning women's gymnastics team (Amanda Borden, Amy Chow, Dominique Dawes, Shannon Miller, Dominique Moceanu, Joyce Phelps and Kerri Strug) will be together for the Tour.

This marks the first time that the team has performed together since their historic gold medal efforts at the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta.

Knapp added, "We are pleased that the Magnificent Seven is once again united and will have the opportunity to receive the appreciation of American gymnastics fans in what promises to be a highly successful tour."

In addition to the women's team, Mihai Bageu, John Macready, John Roethlisberger, Kip Simons, Chaneoy Umphrey, and Blaine Wilson, all members of the 1996 U.S. Olympic Men's Team, will perform on the tour.
Also making special appearances are World Champions Kurt Thomas and Kim Zmeskal, Olympian Jessica Davis, and 1996 All-Around Olympic Medalist Lilia Podkopaeva.

The Tour is sanctioned by USA Gymnastics and a portion of the ticket sales will be contributed to USA Gymnastics to support gymnastics in America. The tour is produced by Bill Graham Presents and Jefferson Pilot Sports, in conjunction with John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company. Each performance is a two-hour live exhibition featuring routines on the uneven bars, balance beam, floor exercise, parallel bars, still rings, pommel horse, and rhythmic gymnastics. Each tour date will also feature exhibitors by local gymnasts.

The John Hancock Tour of World Gymnastics Champions will once again bring
USA Gymnastics
Member Clubs
gymnasts to participate in the shows.

*Gold medals didn't make them champions.
Hard work did.
The medals are noble reminders of how they rose to the occasion when it mattered most. All of us at Alpha Factor are proud of our team—
our heroes.
And we're proud to have played a part
in their success.
We devoted countless hours of our own
hard work to insure that every official Reebok® uniform we produced was worthy of the champion
who wore it.*

*We salute all the athletes who competed,
not just the gold
medalists. Imagine the commitment, the sacrifice required
to simply contend
in a global arena.
Their dedication is an inspiration to us all. They were winners long before they earned a spot
in Atlanta, Georgia.
Our gold medal
winners are superstars
now. But always remember, before they were celebrities,
they were champions.
Alpha Factor.
Fit for champions.*
